

Civic Engagement in Charlotte

Community Sessions

From September 2016 through May 2017, a team from UNC Charlotte and Johnson C. Smith University studied civic engagement in Charlotte-Mecklenburg.

We'd like to share what we learned.

What to Expect

- Drop-in event with two different optional facilitated group conversations.
- Findings on different levels of engagement among Charlotteans, focused on those who are paying attention, but may not be actively engaging.
- Data and discussion around how the information we receive, people we interact with, and the local landscape influence our behaviors and motivations both online and off.
- Refreshments and a kid-friendly atmosphere.

Your participation will help focus our final product and provide new, relevant, and actionable information for those trying to enhance civic life.
